Handwritten text at the top edge of the page, partially obscured by a tear.

Main body of handwritten text, appearing as a series of lines across the page. The ink is very light and the handwriting is cursive, making it difficult to decipher. A faint circular stamp or seal is visible in the lower right quadrant of this section.

A large, irregularly shaped section of the page that has been torn out. This section contains several lines of handwritten text, which are also very faint and difficult to read. The edges of the paper are jagged and uneven.
